Significance of Research

Research encourages scientific and systematic thinking. It promotes the development of logical thinking. It also promotes an organization.

The role of research has vastly increased nowadays in business and economy.

Research provides the basis for almost all policies of the Government in our economic system. For example -

In Budget preparation.

In government sector, research works as a tool to the policy of all economic activities such as

- i) investigation of economic structure
- ii) Diagrams of events that are taking place
- iii) the prediction of future developments

Research has its special significance in solving various operational and planning problems of business activities and industries. eg. for the development of market, profit maximization, cost minimization, consumer behaviour etc.

Research is equally important for social scientists in studying social relationships and in seeking answers to various social problems. Research in social sciences is concerned with,

- i) the development of a body of principles that help in understanding the whole range of human interactions
- and ii) the practical guidance in solving immediate problems of human relations.
